The Chronicle, Centralia/Chehalis, Wash., Thursday, Dec. 4, 2014 • Main

WISE Project Seeks Manager for Program

By Kaylee Osowski

Centralia College is the first college to be awarded $1.8 million through the Trade Adjustment Assistance Community College and Career Training competitive grant program. In all, $450 million was given to almost 270 community colleges throughout the nation.

Hartnett said.

The next step will be to hire a project manager, who will then create an overall project management guide. That guide will help other those participating throughout the process, marking deadlines for fiscal responsibilities and training.

“We’ll need to make sure we are tracking and documenting that the training is happening, where it is happening and that it’s happening in the way we committed to make it,” Hins-Turner said.

The goal is to have a project manager in place by mid-January.

The money is part of a nationwide program called the Trade Adjustment Assistance Community College and Career Training competitive grant program.

In all, $450 million was given to 270 community colleges throughout the nation.

The four-hour meeting helped establish an executive leadership team comprised of people representing the different fields.

The next step will be to hire a project manager, who will then create an overall project management guide. That guide will help other those participating throughout the process, marking deadlines for fiscal responsibilities and training.

“We’ll need to make sure we are tracking and documenting that the training is happening, where it is happening and that it’s happening in the way we committed to make it,” Hins-Turner said.

The goal is to have a project manager in place by mid-January.

The money is part of a nationwide program called the Trade Adjustment Assistance Community College and Career Training competitive grant program.

In all, $450 million was given to almost 270 community colleges throughout the nation.

The Chronicle, Centralia/Chehalis, Wash., Thursday, Dec. 4, 2014 • Main

WISE Project Seeks Manager for Program

By Kaylee Osowski

Centralia College is the first college to be awarded $1.8 million through the Trade Adjustment Assistance Community College and Career Training competitive grant program. In all, $450 million was given to almost 270 community colleges throughout the nation.

Hartnett said.

The next step will be to hire a project manager, who will then create an overall project management guide. That guide will help other those participating throughout the process, marking deadlines for fiscal responsibilities and training.

“We’ll need to make sure we are tracking and documenting that the training is happening, where it is happening and that it’s happening in the way we committed to make it,” Hins-Turner said.

The goal is to have a project manager in place by mid-January.

The money is part of a nationwide program called the Trade Adjustment Assistance Community College and Career Training competitive grant program. In all, $450 million was given to almost 270 community colleges throughout the nation.

The Chronicle, Centralia/Chehalis, Wash., Thursday, Dec. 4, 2014 • Main

WISE Project Seeks Manager for Program

By Kaylee Osowski

Centralia College is the first college to be awarded $1.8 million through the Trade Adjustment Assistance Community College and Career Training competitive grant program. In all, $450 million was given to almost 270 community colleges throughout the nation.

Hartnett said.

The next step will be to hire a project manager, who will then create an overall project management guide. That guide will help other those participating throughout the process, marking deadlines for fiscal responsibilities and training.

“We’ll need to make sure we are tracking and documenting that the training is happening, where it is happening and that it’s happening in the way we committed to make it,” Hins-Turner said.

The goal is to have a project manager in place by mid-January.

The money is part of a nationwide program called the Trade Adjustment Assistance Community College and Career Training competitive grant program. In all, $450 million was given to almost 270 community colleges throughout the nation.